Bob Bralove Sympathetic Resonances: An installation in music, video, and digital prints

For the past few years Bob Bralove has been exploring the marriage of image and sound to a single artistic gesture. With the help of computers he has created a performance medium where every gesture of his fingers on the keyboard trigger both audio and video in consistent and predictable ways. In Sympathetic Resonances, Bralove uses this medium as a compositional tool to transform a physical space.
